

This locking tremolo system has been used on many famous brand guitars around the world, and is regarded as the standard tremolo unit. The floating system features a smooth response, and includes the locking nut. The fine tuners enable minor tuning adjustments while the strings are completely locked.

Locking Nut

We use high carbon steel for the locking nut, which is superior to other metals for strength and tonal values.

These nuts are available to fit any neck width and/or radius.
